Product information

Alfonso Soranzo produces Lo Sfuso di Collina in homage to his grandfather who, like many farmers in the Colli Euganei, sold his grapes to the local coop to be made into bulk wine. The wine is mostly Cabernet Franc, a favored variety locally where it has been cultivated for more than 150 years. Lo Sfuso di Collina is vinified in glass-lined cement using ambient, native yeasts. No fining or filtration are used.

Producer information

Not long ago Alfonso Soranzo set aside the horn he had trained to play since childhood to pick up a plow and get to work in the vineyards. He manages a small property with his father in the Colli Euganei, southwest of Padova, crafting unique wines of great character using sustainable principles in the vineyard and little intervention in the cellar. The Colli Euganei are steep hills of volcanic origin that enjoy great exposure to the sun and cooling Adriatic breezes.
